

Building capacity for the future

Supporting the growth of sustainability

NEPCon has more than 15-year track record of developing training programmes and providing capacity building within our areas of expertise. We have organised and delivered training for thousands of public and corporate sector stakeholders within the scope of our own training programmes, in the framework of projects, and on request.

Our experts

As an organisation delivering certification services under some of the world's most stringent sustainability schemes, we focus on quality and have built an extensive training programme for our staff, conducted by our own trainers and senior experts.

Our experts are also regularly involved in training events and workshops organised by other organisations and as speakers at international conferences and meetings. Topics covered include responsible timber sourcing, public procurement of timber products, timber legality and certification.

Competence is a crucial factor in securing the quality and impact of sustainability efforts including certification schemes. That is why NEPCon has built a comprehensive training programme covering our core expertise areas.

– Peter Feilberg, NEPCon Executive Director
